

Getting Children To City Baffles Board

EXPECT 500 TO GO BUT HOW CAUSES SCHOOL BOARD THOUGHT

MAY NOT BE HOLIDAY

Are Newmarket school children going to see their majesties, the king and queen?

The public school board battled with this question at their meeting in the council chamber on Monday evening, W. H. Eves, chairman, confessed himself for once "stumped."

Difficulties are, first, transportation, and second, responsibility for the children's safety while in the city.

At the Lions club on Monday evening Mr. Eves had a good response to a call for volunteers to drive children to the city on Monday, May 22. Mr. Eves thought that it might be possible to supplement available cars with chartered buses.

Arrangements in the city provide that the drivers or parents are not to remain with the children in places reserved for the children, but that the children are to be looked after by their teachers only. Reeve F. A. Lundy told the Lions club Monday evening.

This has raised the question here as to how the drivers are to

H. A. JACKSON WILL SPEAK AT INSTITUTE MEETING

The April meeting of the Newmarket Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Lundy, Prospect Ave., on Thursday afternoon, April 20. The roll call is "A written suggestion for the coming year." The topic will be given by Principal H. A. Jackson.

find the children again when it is time to go home, and also the question as to where they are to park their cars.

It is expected that the city streets and Yonge St. highway will be crowded, adding to difficulties.

An additional complication arises out of the fact that May 22 is not a holiday in Newmarket, preventing many parents and others from driving children to the city. It is said that it could be declared a civic holiday by the council, but that this is hardly likely in view of May 24 being a holiday.

In Aurora and Whitechurch there has been talk of taking the children to the city by chartered train.

Newmarket public school board left the question undecided on Monday evening, but decided to advise the county authorities that 500 children would attend.

Y.P.U.'s TAKE PART IN DRAMA CONTEST

On Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week, April 18 and 19, the Young People's Union of the Toronto Centre North Presbyterian of the United Church will hold their fourth religious drama festival.

On Tuesday evening the unions from King and Mount Pisgah will present their plays in the Vandorf community hall.

On Wednesday evening, Queensville, Ravenshoe and Sutton West young people will compete in the Belhaven community hall.

Mrs. Illyd Harris of Newmarket will act as adjudicator and her comments and criticisms of the plays will be most interesting and helpful.

HEAR DENTON MASSEY

The R. S. A. Bugle Band has been invited by Denton Massey to attend the York Bible class next Sunday, April 16. The boys will assemble at the R. S. A. hall at 1.30 p.m. They will not take their instruments.

FOUR DRAMAS WILL COMPETE IN FESTIVAL

An annual event in Newmarket that always produces a packed house, is the drama festival put on in the auditorium of Pickering College by the Junior Farmer clubs of York county. This will be staged on Monday evening of next week, April 17, when the doors will close as the curtain rises at 8.15.

The Junior Farmer clubs represented have in the past received the highest praise from the adjudicator, who commented on their performances as "finished actors." Last year, five clubs played on the two evenings, but with only four entries in this year, they are all being presented on the one evening.

This year's plays include the following one-act plays, which have been recommended by the adjudicator: "Angel Awake," by the Popular Bank club of Sharon, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Bowman; "Memory Rose," by Victoria Square club, directed by Mrs. P. W. Williams; "The Poison Party," by Vellore club, directed by Miss Ezzard; and "Old Bull," by Unionville club, directed by R. L. Simpson. No club is allowed more than 10 minutes to set up their stage, so it promises to be a fast-moving show.

The Junior Farmers have again secured James E. Dean of Toronto as adjudicator and there is every promise of a real night's entertainment.

HITLER MEANT BUSINESS IN SEPTEMBER, BRITAIN WASN'T READY, AUBREY DAVIS STATES

BRITAIN'S POSITION STRONGER IN SOME WAYS, WEAKER IN OTHERS, SINCE SEPTEMBER, SPEAKER TELLS LIONS CLUB

FINDS BRITISH PEOPLE UNITED FOR DEFENCE

"Three of the hardest things in the world to do, are to climb a fence which is leaning toward you; to kiss a girl who is leaning away from you; to make a speech after such an extremely complimentary introduction as has been extended to me tonight," Aubrey Davis, president of the Davis Leather Co., told the Lions club Monday evening.

"The two former I proved to be difficult in my younger days, and it remains to be seen how I may be able to overcome, if possible, the third difficulty in addressing you tonight," continued Mr. Davis.

"Naturally it is a great pleasure to spend an evening in the atmosphere of the Lions club, an institution that has such a record for service and sacrifice in the public weal, as the Lions club enjoys in Newmarket. Not only is every citizen of the town thoroughly behind the Lions club, but the adjoining municipalities thoroughly appreciate the great work you have done here over several years, and it is gratifying to realize that you have been able to send out from your club here, key men to spread your gospel to quite distant parts of our province."

"However, I should state frankly my presence tonight is due to the persistence of Alex. Belugin. We who know him, recognize the fact that once he starts on your trail you may as well give up."

"Quite frankly, I did not know that persistence was such a national characteristic of the Russian born, until informed by Mr. Pascal, the renowned producer of the famous Bernard Shaw picture, 'Pygmalion,' who was a passenger on Feb. 10 from New York on the Queen Mary."

"While he spoke English in a very hesitant way, I got to know Mr. Pascal very well on the voyage, and he told me on one of our walks around deck, speaking of women, 'the English girl, she is always bathed, she is sweet and healthy; the French girl, she is petite, but she never bathes, just adds Cologne, and more Cologne; the Russian girl, she is alone for love, such persistence, one kiss lasts 20 minutes without a breath.' So then I understood how our friend Alex Belugin has had such a good grounding in persistence before leaving the land of his birth."

"Six months from September was to be the subject of my remarks tonight, and let me tell you at the outset that they speak of Wednesday, Sept. 24, in England as 'Black Wednesday,' because that day closed with the certainty of war. Starting on Sept. 23, people had been leaving London by train and motor, and the defences, such as they were, were being manned. Everyone seems to have gone to bed on the night of Sept. 24 with two ideas in mind, first, that it was likely to be the last peaceful night they would have for quite a long time, and, secondly, that England was not ready to meet the situation."

"There was a very small percentage who thought that Hitler was bluffing, and would not go to war, and being good pocket players they claimed Britain should have called the bluff. On Black Wednesday, Sept. 24, British pride, British prestige, and British confidence, was, in my opinion, at an all-time low ebb."

"Two things are now clear. Hitler was not bluffing, but was really keen to get started at blowing London to pieces. In fact, it seemed possible he was trying to bluff England into thinking he would not strike when he really intended to do so. My mind is convinced on that point from following the record of the two German ships, Germany has two fast ships on the Atlantic service, the Europa and the Bremen. The Europa was left for her berth on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 23, and should have been anchored in Southampton waters about noon on Sept. 24, to take on her passengers from Southampton for New York."

"Instead, on the night of Sept. 23, the Europa did not leave her slip, but on the morning of the 24th, a special train, carrying 100-odd passengers from London to Southampton to go on board the Europa, left London as per schedule, and the passengers were all taken to Southampton. They were put off at the station and taken to the hotels and the baggage sent on to the pier. They were advised later in the day that they would go to the pier to make ready for sailing at seven o'clock that evening."

on board the tender, and then, and only then, were they advised that the Europa was not sailing, which caused a near panic among the women and children who constituted the bulk of the passengers. This was so unusual for German efficiency that it seemed as though they were trying to mislead the English people into believing until the last minute that their shipping was carrying on as usual, in the hope that when they did strike, the sudden and unexpectedness might be more effective."

"However, following the Munich conference, action as you know was delayed, due possibly to pressure from Mr. Mussolini more than anything else."

"By a regular coincidence I was seated beside a man, coming back on the Queen Mary on March 18, who had his passage booked on the Queen Mary on Sept. 24, but who had to cancel his passage due to the fact that he was advised to report to his unit. In course of conversation he told me that he sailed from Southampton for New York somewhere around the first week in October, after the excitement had calmed down, and taking the first fast ship he could get he crossed on the Bremen. He said the Bremen was sailing with only 33 passengers on board."

"He was seated at the first officer's table, and got to know him quite well during the voyage and the last night they had cocktails together before dinner he made bold to ask this German officer whether he would mind answering a question for him, advising him that he was quite at liberty to refuse, if for any reason he preferred to do so. He told the German officer he was anxious to know their reaction to the situation the first week in September, to which he replied that of course they were in an awkward spot, being in New York on that date, sailing from there on the 24th. He said immediately they got out to sea the commander called the officers to the bridge, and advised them that they were sailing from that moment forward under war conditions, and they must impress on their men that the same alertness must be observed by all branches on board. He said conditions looked as black as they could, and that they were changing their course to sail for Greenland. These two incidents I think we can accept as definite assurance that Germany meant to strike on the night of Sept. 23."

"Britain was not ready, and this is confirmed by an interview I had with a banker shortly after my arrival in London in February. He was the last man that I called on before leaving London on Sept. 23, and I happened to mention to him in February that in returning from the city to my hotel, the taxi driver took me along the embankment, and even on the embankment traffic was congested beyond belief, and it so happened that while we were halted at one point, we were directly opposite where a crew were mounting an anti-aircraft gun. I told my banker friend that in my judgment the gun was the same type of gun that was used in 1918."

"He then went on to say, 'I have no doubt this is so, we were woefully lacking in our preparations.' He further said, 'I did not appreciate it myself so fully until the night of the annual dinner given by the bank to the men on their staffs in all parts of the country that served in the last war. It has been our practice for over 20 years to bring these men into London, to engage Lyons' big place, and provide a 'dod' that they always look forward to and always remember. It so happened this year that the night had been set for the end of the first week in October, and to my surprise I did not see the man who usually headed up the evening's activity, and he did not come in until almost ten o'clock. Noticing his arrival, I sent for him and told him that in my opinion he nearly missed the boat. To which he replied, 'I am sorry, sir, I got here the very first moment I could, I have just been demobbed.'"

"Enquiring what he was doing in the service up to that time, the banker said: 'He told me that he had been sent down with a detail to man anti-aircraft batteries in Kent. When he arrived at the point with his party he found no survey had been made for the location of the gun, no provision had been made for either housing or feeding the men, no supplies had arrived for stores, and did not arrive until

SOFT ACCENTS, DRAWLING DARKIES, SONGS AND PLANTATION SCENES ARE PLEASING FARE

The minstrel show put on by the Newmarket Citizens' Band lived up to all advance notices last night and played to a full house.

During the numbers by the chorus, which were exceptionally well done, A. C. West tried his best to sell the "boss" of the negroes, Alex. Eves, a rabbit, but was unsuccessful in doing so, as Alex. did not seem to want it.

INSTITUTE FOR BLIND HOLDS TAG APRIL 29

MRS. FRANK ROBINSON TELLS OF WORK OF NATIONAL INSTITUTE

WORK IS NATION WIDE

"The Canadian National Institute for the Blind has a long name, but it is a name which accurately describes the organization to which it is attached," Mrs. Frank Robinson, in charge of the tag day in Newmarket on April 29, told The Era this week. "It is Canadian, in its officers, its constitution and its viewpoint. It operates under a charter granted by the Canadian government. It is national. Its field includes the entire nation. There is no portion of Canada in which its work is not carried on."

"The complete program of the Institute for the betterment of the blind covers a larger area than any other similar organization and work for the blind in Canada is more uniform and progressive than is the case in other countries, where the activities undertaken in Canada by the Institute are scattered throughout a score of different organizations competing for favor both from the public and the blind."

"In Canada the point has been reached when it can confidently be asserted that, if anyone wants to assist the blind in any way, there is one certain way in which he can be assured that the most beneficial results as far as the blind are concerned will be achieved through the use of his money. That way is by contributing to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, which leaves no avenue unexplored through which it is possible to render legitimate help to blind people."

Attention of Newmarket citizens is called to the fact that the "Associated Blind" have no connection with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUB ENJOYS ANNUAL BANQUET

The annual banquet of the boys' and girls' club of the Friends church was held last evening and was a very successful affair.

Rev. Mr. Bremner of Galt was guest speaker and took for his subject, "A Trip to Palestine."

Miss June Hill was chairman. Miss Lillian Hill and Lloyd Gilkes sang a duet by request. There were about 35 present.

NO RESURRECTION, HE WOULDN'T BOTHER

The resurrection as the basis of the Christian religion was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. R. R. McMath, the pastor, in Trinity United church pulpit on Easter morning.

"The story of the birth of Jesus doesn't carry me away at all," said Mr. McMath. "There are lots of children born just as humbly as Jesus. In 1939 there are lots of mothers in just as difficult circumstances. There are fathers who have no job, and no hope of work, who, with the knowledge of a baby coming, are driven to cut their own throats."

"Hard as Jesus' boyhood was, with a trade to learn, I can duplicate it for difficulty with the lives of many boys of today. 'What about the cross? My own brother left home at 17, and he lies in Flanders fields. Why should he be crucified? But when I come to the resurrection, I cannot duplicate it. No other religion can duplicate it. If Christ is not risen, your faith is in vain, ye are yet in your sins.' If Christ has risen, he has triumphed over sin and death and shame."

"You can't challenge me to goodness unless there is a resurrection. It's silly for me to give up joys and pleasures for 60 or 70 years if there is no hereafter. It is impossible for me to see how a religion could last for 1900 years and be founded on fraud."

A choir of 72 voices, including 50 juniors, sang in the church on Sunday morning. Joan Robertson, Fred Cunningham and Mrs. I. Harris took solo parts. The juniors were all garbed in new red and white gowns and caps.

The boys are well worth seeing and if you didn't see them last night, be sure and see them tonight, and also find out how Ang. eventually got rid of his rabbit.

University Teachers Described "Traitors"

CLASSICS PROFESSOR ASKED FOR RELIEF WORKS INSTEAD OF ARMS

SPEAKER SEES DANGER

Speaking at the Lions club Monday evening, Aubrey Davis, president of the Davis Leather Co., drew attention to an item which appeared in the Saturday, April 8 metropolitan edition of the Globe and Mail, reading as follows:

"Warning that any war that could come in Europe at the present time would have nothing to do with democracy, was voiced by G. M. A. Grube, University of Toronto professor of classics and editor of the Canadian Forum, at last night's session of the annual convention of the Ontario C.C.F. 'The complete program of the Institute for the betterment of the blind covers a larger area than any other similar organization and work for the blind in Canada is more uniform and progressive than is the case in other countries, where the activities undertaken in Canada by the Institute are scattered throughout a score of different organizations competing for favor both from the public and the blind.'"

PRESENT PLAY

Trinity United church young people are planning to present a play, "Vanity Fair," on Friday, April 28, in the church.

or trebling our expenditure and the defence of the country should be supervised by three independent commissions whose business it would be to get effective and immediate results in protecting her two coasts and also the industrial midsection of the country," said Mr. Davis.

"The second resolution sponsored by this article only needs to be considered alongside of the attitude of the totalitarian states where no labor unions or short hours or big pay envelopes are allowed. Everybody has to work for the state."

"The third resolution covered by this newspaper item is condemning the only constructive program that has been suggested to take care of the hundreds of thousands of young men in Canada who have no means of obtaining proper food, clothing, or a livelihood or being taught a trade."

"In my judgment the time has arrived when thinking citizens of Ontario should register with Premier Mitchell Hepburn their serious objection to the taxpayers' money being squandered in paying the salaries of this type of traitor. In my opinion, the Ontario prime minister should further reduce the grants to the Ontario universities until such time as the board of governors of these institutions see fit to weed from their staffs men who delight in parading themselves before the public as traitors to our dominion and empire."

Following the conclusion of the address, the following resolution offered by Mr. Davis was passed:

"We, the members of Newmarket Lions club in regular meeting assembled, respectfully commend to the attention of Hon. Mitchell Hepburn an article in Saturday's Globe and Mail, 'University of Toronto Professor assails Canada's Defence Budget,' article located on page four, metropolitan edition."

"As taxpayers we submit Ontario's prime minister might wisely further reduce grants to Ontario's universities until such time as the boards of governors of these institutions see fit to weed from their staffs, men who delight in parading themselves before the public as traitors to our dominion and empire."

"Surely our hard-earned tax dollars might be put to better use than supplying salaries for men of this type who year in and year out are poisoning the minds of Ontario's finest young men and women"

Dance Floor Will Be Laid At Race Track For Reunion

COMMITTEE ACCEPTS OFFER TO HAVE BIKE CHAMPIONSHIP HELD HERE

A dance floor, built in movable sections, 40 by 80 feet in extent, will be constructed for the reunion, it was decided at a meeting of the old boys' reunion committee on Tuesday evening. A. C. West was presiding.

The dance floor will be placed on the track in front of the grandstand at night and removed during the day.

Another decision was to accept the invitation of the Canadian Wheelmen to hold the dominion amateur bicycle championships here on July 1.

On Easter Sunday evening at Trinity United church a very fine pageant entitled, "The Way of the Cross," was presented by members of Rev. R. R. McMath's class in an effective manner. Mrs. Illyd Harris sang an appropriate solo between the acts.

Mr. McMath is to be congratulated on the splendid way he directed this Easter pageant, which brought an inspiring message to everyone.

CONCERNING FREEDOM OF SPEECH

The Era doubts the wisdom of the Newmarket Lions club passing a resolution asking the provincial government to try to secure the dismissal of University of Toronto professors whose political views are unpopular.

A university where there isn't freedom of thought and speech isn't capable of imparting education to anyone.

The particular opinion to which the Lions club object is the contention that Canada should divert to relief money now being spent on armaments. The thought behind the objection presumably is that such opinions might influence the Canadian government and possibly result in Canada becoming the dependency of a totalitarian state.

But what is the choice between one allegiance and another, if neither is to permit free speech? If freedom of speech should go, other liberties would soon follow.

Nor is it fair to term those who hold unpopular views "traitors," as the Lions' resolution does. They are as sincere in their views as those who wish more armaments and just as confident that their opinions are in the best interests of Canada. Many of the Quaker people of Newmarket and district believe that Canada should have less armaments, but no one would think of calling them traitors.

Those who believe in more armaments have the privilege of advocating that course. If they are able to win the support of the majority of the Canadian people, they will get what they want, but we can't think that they really want to prevent the other fellow from putting his side of the argument.

If we settled questions of public policy in that fashion, we should soon be administering justice in the same way. The accused would be no longer entitled to tell his side of the story. Soon we would be living in a totalitarian state of our own making. Nobody wants that.

TAX ON IMAGINATION

In five or ten years time, aeroplanes will be in as common use as automobiles are today, Prof. T. R. Loudon of the University of Toronto told a Newmarket audience a couple of weeks ago. Do you believe that? Of course you don't. We don't either, but it may be true. We don't even believe that planes will be as common as automobiles today in 25 or 50 years time. It is too much tax on the imagination, but probably, in spite of our lack of imagination, the air will be black with planes in 1965. (By the way, talking of taxes, does anyone know whether aeroplanes have to pay gasoline tax? If so, how can Mr. Hepburn justify it, including the two cents increase, for he didn't build the heavens? If not, how does the government make sure that the aeroplane owner doesn't fill his automobile tank out of his plane tank? Address answers to Quiz Editor.)

Newmarket's Airport

We are going to tax our imagination again. Maybe not in ten years time, but in 15, 20 or 25 years time we really can believe, if like Alice we shut our eyes and try hard, that planes will be in general use. There will be lots of accidents too, but not many accidents in relation to the number of safe flights that will be made. Where will Newmarket people land their planes? Will they have to go to the Queensville flats? No, we don't believe that they will. Newmarket is going to be an ultra-modern town some day, with an airport in its very centre. The railway tracks will be gone by then or moved elsewhere, and a first-class landing field or a couple of them will be built along the flats between Huron St. and Timothy St. Newmarket will grow rapidly, not only as an industrial town, but also as a pleasant Toronto residential suburb. Toronto will have a waterfront or downtown landing field and Toronto business men and workmen will fly back and forth between Newmarket and Toronto, living here, working in the city. (Whether they will pay gasoline tax or not we can't tell you. Even Mr. Hepburn can't tell you that.)

POLICE AS LAW-BREAKERS

If you don't "blow up" occasionally, young man, there is no use of your planning to become an editorial writer, not even for a town weekly. You might as well go west, or, is it nowadays, go north? The present writer thinks that he has at least that one qualification for an editorial writer, that he "goes up in the air" occasionally. Policemen with firearms is one thing that makes him hot under the collar. There were two wild and unnecessary automobile chases in Toronto last week. In each instance a policeman sighted a stolen car and gave chase. The speed on city streets reached 70 miles an hour, and in at least one chase the policeman fired revolver shots after the fleeing car. Unfortunately, no one points out to these policemen that in order to recover stolen property they have endangered lives, the lives of the pursued, themselves, and the public. It would be better to let the stolen cars get away than to take such risks. Policemen should not think that they can break traffic laws, when breaking them means endangering lives, and policemen should not carry revolvers. They always shoot before they think. And some of them don't even think after they have done their shooting. London, England, police don't carry revolvers, and, as a result, English criminals seldom carry them either, and they know that if they are caught, and have firearms in their possession, the penalty will be several years heavier.

NEW HOUSES ARE BEST CROP

Mr. Hepburn is going to pass back to the municipalities half a mill of the additional two cents gasoline tax. It is a constructive move—another bundle of straw off the camel's back. Mr. Hepburn is already lifting a mill off real estate and this additional half mill will be appreciated. Every little bit of real estate tax relief will help to stimulate building. Incidentally, we are not quite sure whether the town council has passed the promised by-law to offer building lots for sale at $50 each, so that builders of homes for their own occupation may take advantage of the federal housing legislation. This legislation, in effect since June 1, 1938, provides that the federal government will pay 100 per cent of the taxes the first year, 50 per cent the second year, and 25 per cent the third year, on houses costing less than $4,000 built before Dec. 31, 1940. If the town council has passed the necessary by-law, then there should be some advertising of it, so that a few citizens may be encouraged to buy lots and build homes this summer. Even now a gentleman has a request before the council to use some of the town land at Connaught Gardens for gardening. Wouldn't it be a good idea, before granting this land for gardening, to advertise for possible builders?

CO-OPERATION'S MERITS

A Leadership League speaker here last week pointed to the Scandinavian countries and said they were making democracy work. But we doubt if he would go farther and explain the co-operative way of doing business which has been the making, both economically and culturally, of those countries. How could the Globe and Mail afford to advocate the co-operative way of doing business? Co-operators hope ultimately to get away from the cost of competitive advertising, although they do believe in informative advertising or educational advertising. We do not imagine that Scandinavian newspapers would carry as much advertising as do newspapers in competitive countries. We don't blame the Globe and Mail or the Leadership League, but we do say that they cannot afford to make many references to Scandinavian successes in democracy. Co-operation is democracy in business. The co-operative business not only pays patronage dividends to its customers, but it invites and requires its customers to take an interest in its operation. In other words, it is educational, it makes good citizens and it leads people to take a similar interest in government.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

It is becoming increasingly clear that Premier Mitchell Hepburn has not the slightest interest in the ideal of temperance. He not only does not care how much human misery is caused by the liquor which his government is selling, but he is obviously out to sell all he can. He is out to increase sales. There is no liquor control in Ontario today. There is more beer and more hard liquor being sold every year. Mr. Hepburn has even refused to enforce the Canada Temperance Act and has demanded that the federal government repeal it so far as Ontario is concerned. Such an action would turn certain Ontario areas, now dry under local option, into wet areas. Mr. Hepburn came into power on an economy program. He is spending more money now than any Ontario government ever spent before. He substantially increased the public debt last year and this year's budget is the biggest in Ontario history. Oh, for another Hepburn, with another economy axe!

WHAT U. S. CATHOLICS THINK

The Catholic weekly, The Tablet, published in Brooklyn, New York, quotes Prime Minister Mackenzie King in support of its isolationist viewpoint. Mr. King is quoted as follows: "The idea that every 20 years this country, which has done all it can to run itself, should feel called upon to save periodically a continent that cannot run itself, seems to many a nightmare and sheer madness." This Catholic newspaper quotes a British Catholic writer as warning that Moscow and New York are trying to force Britain into a European war "during which the belligerents will have to go to New York for gold loans, thereby restoring international usury under a lending centre, while politically all the belligerents will lose, leaving the (communist) revolution the universal victor." The same article refers to a "if the United States ever joined in a foreign war statement by the Catholic bishop of Buffalo that with Russia (as an ally), I would advise every Catholic boy to refuse to serve for the United States. We cannot ask as a civilized government that the youth of America identify themselves with communism, with atheism." The article also quotes Dr. Charles Beard, the eminent educationist, as advising his fellow Americans: "To entangle ourselves in the mazes and passions of European conflicts and tie our hands to British and French manipulators on the remote contingency of a German and Italian domination in the Atlantic seems to me to embrace immediate calamities when the possibility of security and peace in this hemisphere is clearly open to us." Dr. Beard asks the Roosevelt administration to stop looking for trouble by "lecturing" the dictator nations.

Never Trouble Trouble

The Tablet has selected these quotations because they support its own viewpoint, with which our readers may or may not agree. We like the general idea that this continent should not "trouble trouble until trouble troubles you," but we think that we should include Russia as well as Germany and Italy in any stop-hating-dictator-nations policy. Germany has been pretty nearly as unkind to religion as has Russia. There is no freedom of worship in Germany.

Correct Economic Conditions

Many of our readers will agree with the thought in the final paragraph in The Tablet's editorial: "Let us stand as one for the defense of our native land. We believe in adequate defense against invaders who fortunately are not visible at this time. We believe in setting our own house in order. The foreign ideologists are a far greater menace to the country than any distant land. The millions of unemployed; the half-starved, poorly housed and unclothed masses are our problems. Want amidst plenty, ill-distribution of wealth and the spread of hate, are issues facing us. The United States can save democracy only by putting its own house in order. Moral re-armament, spiritual progress, unity for America and American ideals, will alone spell peace. Fight, but for peace."

The Common Round

By Isabel Inglis Colville
THE TWO PARADES

Some two thousand years ago on the first Good Friday—a great parade—cavalade—call it which you will—moved out from Pilate's judgment hall, toward the little mound outside the gates of Jerusalem, where the Romans put their criminals to death on the cross.

It was a parade, for in it marched the soldiers of the Roman governor, the high priest and his associates, the crowd of Jewish people, who, egged on by their leaders, had cried "Crucify Him!" and the mob that accompanies a great parade—these drawn by curiosity and the same morbid urge which makes people, to this day, linger about when an execution is taking place, even although they can see nothing.

In most parades, there is a central figure, in whose honor the parade is staged.

On that occasion, the One on whom all eyes were fastened, was being led to His death.

Those who loved Him were afraid to give any expression to the love and pity that consumed them—afraid the mob in its blood-thirsty mood might turn on them and give them over to the same fate which awaited their Master.

Besides, they were lost in gloom and doubt—where were the palm branches and the "hosannas" of the previous Sunday? Had they believed in one not worthy? Was Caiaphas right when he called Jesus an impostor, and had they strayed from their allegiance to their ancient faith when they followed this young Teacher?

It was a parade of gloom, doubt, terror and anguish for the few followers of the Nazarene, who were one day to be the first Christians.

The return parade to the city must have been in the nature of a rout. The terrifying darkness; the earthquake, the news of the rending of the veil of the temple, would be enough to cause the stampede of a terror-stricken mob, and one can imagine that only the Roman soldiers, schooled to stoicism, would preserve some semblance of order as they marched back to the city.

And then came Easter Day. One can imagine the glowing sunshine, the perfume of flowers, the loveliness of the day that welcomed our Lord risen from the tomb.

One can imagine, too, the prayer and praise that came from the hearts of those whose fears and doubts were turned into joy.

Have you not often wondered how Caiaphas felt—and Pilate—all those who were instrumental in bringing the Christ to the cross. What did His resurrection mean to Caiaphas? How did he explain it to his followers? Some legends say he bought the silence of the soldiers who had guarded the tomb and who saw the stone rolled away.

I have often wondered why we hear so much more of Judas and Pilate in connection with the crucifixion than Caiaphas? Judas repented in blood and tears, even if it was a late repentance and Pilate never desired the death of Jesus. Of course, a stronger man might have held out, even at the risk of a Jewish uprising, to save what to him was the life of a man wrongfully accused; for Pilate was not a Jew, and had not Caiaphas knowledge of just what Jesus had done for his people. But Caiaphas was a politician, grasping for power, as well as a high priest and like some statement of our own day, or like Napoleon when he said, "Me, I am the empire!" brooked no divided allegiance from the Jews.

And Jesus himself said to Pilate, "He that delivered me unto thee, hath the greater sin."

But conjecture is vain and we only know what Easter meant to the few to whom our Lord's resurrection brought life eternal—the great victory over death.

And now, for two thousand years we have observed Good Friday and celebrated Easter Sunday, and once more they are past and I think our Easter Sunday is the strangest mixture of pagan and Christian customs that ever was known.

In our big cities, there is another sort of parade than the one which was the forerunner of the first Easter.

Prizes for costumes!—like a carnival!—it's hard to reconcile it with the thought of the price paid for the joy of Easter.

I like a new gown, and a new hat too, if I can get one that won't make me look like a cross between a monkey and a freak, but I do not think that Easter should be the day to first exhibit it.

I defy any woman to go to church on Easter Sunday, and finding herself surrounded by the oddities, absurdities and impossibilities which we now call hats, be able to give her undivided attention to the service. Even men notice hats (so called) nowadays, and I'm sure, on Easter Sunday, they too must be distracted by the array about them—unless they're too busy wondering if they'll like their new suits as well as the old ones.

It seems to me there is a time and place for everything, and Easter Day is not the day for a fashion parade.

SOME "RETURNED MEN" COMPLAIN

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"I'm certainly enjoying this sap out here in the maple woods," said Sappy, the Yellow-bellied Sapsucker, to his cousin, the Hairy Woodpecker.

"Yes, but think of the harm you are doing to the trees by girdling the trunks with those big square holes like that," pointed out Hairy.

"Oh, that's not my worry," laughed the handsome Sapsucker. "Think of the pleasure I get out of my meals." He was a very pretty Woodpecker, bigger than the Downy, but not as big as the Hairy, with a bright red crown on his head and a red throat, trimmed with a wide black collar. His underparts were pale yellow.

"When are we going to get rid of you?" asked Hairy.

"Well, I usually go up north about now, but what's the use of going north when you're having practically winter weather here?" said Sappy.

"How true, how true," murmured the big Woodpecker sadly. "All the birds are highly indignant about the weather."

"I was talking to Blackie, the Crow, today," said Sappy. "He usually nests about the middle of April, but he says what's the use of building a nest when the eggs would freeze if they were left alone for a second."

"We could stand a few less Crows around this year," said the Hairy drily. "Especially those young ones. Their attempts at learning to caw are pretty hard on the nerves."

"Yes, I agree, but you can see Blackie's point of view all the same," answered his cousin.

"Oh, yes, of course," agreed Hairy. "I don't suppose he can help it that he is a Crow and not, say, a member of the famous Woodpecker family."

"I just saw a big bird fly into view and go out of sight again," announced Hairy soon after. "He must be away over beside the stream in that field across there. I think I'll just go over and see who it is." He winged his way quickly over to the spot where the bird had seemed to be and found that it was just on the edge of the little stream near some willow trees. Hairy looked curiously about him to see if he could see anyone.

Suddenly a very loud and prolonged rattle sounded so close to him that Hairy jumped in alarm.

"Why, it's a Kingfisher, of course," Hairy said to himself. "Where are you, Fellow?" he called out. "I don't see you, but I certainly hear you."

"Right up here above you," came the reply. "You aren't looking up high enough. May I ask if you people in Newmarket call this spring weather? I must say, I'm almost sorry I came up from the south at all."

"It is very disappointing," admitted the Woodpecker, to the striking-looking slaty-blue and white bird, with the long bill and great ragged crest surrounding his kingly head. "But spring will come in time, just you wait patiently."

"Well, I must say that the fishing business is a pretty chilly and badly rewarded profession these days," grumbled the Kingfisher.

"I hear some Red-winged Blackbirds singing 'O-ke-ree, O-ke-ree' over near that marshy land down the stream a bit," said Hairy. "I guess you can't discourage some of the birds from returning."

"They're not so badly off, because they live on weed seeds and insects," the Kingfisher went on with his complaint.

"Well, I don't think there is an over-supply of them, either," said Hairy. "We all-year-round birds have seen to that."

"There's my other cousin, the Flicker, setting up his piping racket," he added a moment later. "I believe he makes more noise than even you Kingfishers do."

"I'm sure of it," the Kingfisher replied promptly. "He keeps up his high-pitched shouting incessantly in the springtime. I would think he would get sick of the sound himself."

"Well, I guess I'll go back to the woods," Hairy decided after chatting a while longer with the Kingfisher. "I'll see you again, friend," he said as he left.

As Hairy approached the maple woods he saw a lovely male Pheasant, pecking his way carefully through the mud and snow, his shiny green head held proudly. Hairy noticed that he was quite lame.

"Why, what on earth makes you limp so badly?" Hairy shouted at him.

"None of your business!" was the surprising reply. The Pheasant continued haughtily on his way, completely ignoring the Woodpecker.

So Hairy didn't prolong the conversation, and as he entered the woods he met Nutty Nuthatch.

"Why on earth is that Pheasant so huffy about his lameness?" he asked Nutty. "What made him that way?"

"I'm pretty sure that's one of the Pheasants who was in the fight I was telling the chums about a while ago," answered Nutty. "I

AURORA BOY GANG BREAK INTO HOME ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS, TAKE LOOT

After pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering by night into an Aurora house, two Aurora youths, one 17 and one 20, were each remanded in custody one week for sentence by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in Newmarket police court on Tuesday.

On a similar charge another 17-year-old Aurora youth pleaded not guilty and elected trial by jury through his counsel, Clifford Case. He was remanded in custody until bail is set by a county judge.

The 23-year-old also pleaded guilty to a second charge of theft of an auto from Aurora last Thursday evening and he was again remanded one week for sentence. A juvenile from Aurora is charged with breaking and entering and car theft and the two charges will be heard in juvenile court.

"I live in Aurora but have a flat in Toronto and during the month of January I was in Toronto," testified General J. H. Elmsley. "I came back to the house on Jan. 23 or 24 and found that someone had broken in, as the drawers and desk were open and two or three articles were missing. The cellar window showed signs of being forced in, as the two small bars were forced in and the screen was gone, so I presumed that entrance was gained to the house through this window. I found that my double-barrelled shotgun and army automatic were missing but I didn't notice anything else at the time."

A shotgun, automatic revolver, gun-metal watch, small silver watch, and a pair of hockey gloves were all exhibited in the court room and identified by Gen. Elmsley, who said that the gloves belonged to his son.

"I didn't know that the watches and gloves had been taken until Constable Dunham brought them to my house last week," stated Gen. Elmsley. "I don't know any of the three accused and certainly didn't give them permission to enter the house."

"I live in Aurora and have known the three accused for nine or ten years," testified Albert Bunn. "I saw the oldest boy hunting in the bush on Jan. 15 with a shotgun. I asked him for the gun and after looking at it I gave it back to him. A few days later I heard that articles were missing from Gen. Elmsley's house and I told him I knew where his guns were. On Jan. 26 when I was in the pool-room the boy told me that he and some other boys got in the Elmsley house and took the shotgun and revolver on Jan. 5, and that the revolver was hidden in a barn. I told him to bring the two guns to me, which he did the next afternoon and he was accompanied by the juvenile. At night he brought me the gun-metal watch."

At this point the three boys yelled out in the court-room, "You're a liar, Bunn," and were ordered to keep quiet by the magistrate and police.

"I didn't notify the police that I had the guns but Constable Dunham came the night that the articles were brought to me and got them," continued Albert Bunn. "Did you at any time see my client in possession of any of these articles," asked Mr. Case, counsel for one of the 17-year-olds. "No," answered Mr. Bunn. "Didn't you come to my place and ask for the guns, instead of me taking them to your place as you just stated?" asked the oldest boy.

"Yes, I went to your place for them," stated Mr. Bunn.

"After Gen. Elmsley informed me that his house had been entered I started an investigation and found that a window had been forced open in the cellar," testified Constable Fisher Dunham. "Constable Fleury and I interviewed the oldest boy and he told us he and three other boys whose names he gave us, went into the house three or four different times through the cellar window and that they took the two guns, two watches, and gloves."

"I recovered the two guns and one watch at Bunn's and the following night Rev. G. O. Lightbourne brought me the other small watch. The 20-year-old told us that one of the other boys had sold the hockey gloves to a boy at the rink for 70 cents. I interviewed this boy the next night and he admitted to me that he had been in the house with the 20-year-old and the others two or three times. The third boy also told me that he was in the house two or three different times. The other 17-year-old told me that he took the gloves the second night they were in the house, and that the two guns and two watches were taken the first night. All the boys admitted they broke open the cellar window the first night they went into the house."

"Did you get a written statement from my client or any of the other boys?" asked Mr. Case.

"No," answered Constable Dunham.

"Did the other boys say how many times my client was in the house?"

"No, but they said he was in the house the nights the articles were taken."

Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C., stated that two of the boys had previous records but that the records were not in the court-room.

The magistrate and crown attorney stated they would be satisfied with bail of $500 for Mr. Case's client but that it would have to be taken by a county judge.

The oldest boy said he had nothing to say, but the other boy who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering told the magistrate that he was not in the house the first night when the guns and watches were taken but that he took the gloves the second night the house was entered.

On the charge of theft of an auto belonging to Robt. Seaton, Aurora, the oldest boy pleaded guilty.

"Last Thursday night Seaton reported to me that his car had been taken," testified Constable Dunham. "From inquiries I found out that the 20-year-old and the juvenile had been seen with the car in Newmarket. The juvenile told me they took the car and drove it to Newmarket, where they left it on a side-street. Later I found the car in Newmarket but it wouldn't go. The repairs cost $3.50."

The father of the 20-year-old youth stated that he wished to speak on behalf of his boy. "My son and I are both out of work and last Thursday night there was a eucure and dance and my boy and the juvenile had no money, so they just hung around outside. They saw a man come outside and put two bottles of liquor in a car and my boy came home at 2 a.m. as drunk as a fool and I put him to bed. It was not fit for a dog to be out at night like that and my boy said that the constable kicked him out of the car. I think the liquor was the cause of it all."

of my house and I saw Dean, so I asked him to come over, as I wanted to talk to him," stated Constable Forsythe. "The previous night when I was talking to Mr. Jarvis at the pool-room Dean interfered, as he was working there. I told Mr. Jarvis that you could hear people talking and swearing out on the street. Dean told me I was a liar if I said I could hear him on the street, and then he hit me with his fist. I grabbed him and told him to calm down and he wouldn't, so I called my son and asked him to bring out the hand-cuffs and then we brought him to Newmarket."

"Have you had any previous trouble with Dean?" asked Mr. Line.

"No," answered Constable Forsythe.

Oliver Forsythe, son of the constable, said that he saw Dean strike his father and that he brought out the hand-cuffs and put them on.

Harold Dean stated that he and the constable got into an argument and that the constable took off his coat and took Dean's pipe out of his mouth and the fight started.

Mrs. Forsythe was in between the constable and himself, so he hit her first and then the constable, Dean stated.

Russell Thompson, Holland Landing, gave character evidence for Dean.

"I am going to accept the evidence of the constable and his son that you came there and caused a disturbance," stated Magistrate Woodliffe. "You called the constable a liar and struck him. You attempted to take the law into your own hands and you are not permitted to do that. I am going to take the character evidence into consideration, as previously you have kept the peace."

A charge of killing a dog belonging to Earl Foster, Whitechurch township, laid against Russell and Burnice Preston, Whitechurch, was dismissed. Campbell Line was defence counsel.

"My dog was part collie," stated Mr. Foster. "On March 13 after hearing some shots I ran across the fields and saw the two accused and they each had a shot-gun. They started to walk away and I yelled at them three times before they stopped. My dog was lying dead on the ground. I valued it at $25, as I used him for a watch-dog and for looking after the stock."

"Are you aware your dog chased the Preston cattle before this day?" asked Mr. Line.

"Yes, but the dog never did any damage," answered Mr. Foster.

"My brother and I went out hunting rabbits with our two hounds," stated Russell Preston. "The dogs started up a rabbit and circled into the bush and crossed the corner of the Foster farm. I heard a growl that sounded like a dog-fight and I went over and found where the snow had been tramped but I couldn't see any dogs. I started to whistle and the Foster dog arrived on the scene. He came at me in a rough way and I yelled and kicked at him, then fired a shot in the air but he paid no attention to me, so I kicked at him again, then I fired a second shot at him and he started to drag himself away. I was getting ready to fire a third shot to kill the dog when my brother shot him, as he said he wished to put him out of his misery. The dog was of a vicious disposition."

"Did the Foster dog bite you?" asked Mr. Mathews.

"No, but he showed every sign of doing it," answered Russell Preston.

Fred Preston, father of the two accused, stated that the Foster dog often drove his cattle all the way were all tired out and that the dog had come at him several times but had never bitten him.

Clifford and Marguerite Preston both stated that the dog was bad-tempered.

Burnice Preston testified that he shot the dog to put it out of misery after his brother had shot it once without killing it.

When Mr. Foster was recalled to the stand, he stated that his dog was not vicious and that he had only known it to scare a person once. He said the neighbors often called the dog to chase their cattle.

"It was a rotten thing for them to kill the dog," stated Mr. Mathews.

"The only one who knows anything about this affair is Russell Preston and he says the dog was about to attack him," stated Magistrate Woodliffe. "The evidence before me is that the dog is of a vicious nature and there was some justification for what the Prestons did."

Two charges of damaging property and breaking and entering by night laid against Marshall Brilling, Whitechurch, were dismissed. The horse belonging to Brilling, which was being kept in the barn of E. C. Smith, professor of chemical engineering at Toronto university, until a debt for feed was paid, was taken over to the Brilling barn, and was ordered by the magistrate to be taken back to the Smith barn without prejudice to the rights of either parties until action is taken in the civil courts. J. D. Lucas was defence counsel.

Mr. Mathews stated that the charges were laid as the aftermath of a civil affair that had been under discussion for several months between Mr. Lucas and himself.

Prof. Smith stated that two horses belonging to Brilling were being kept in his barn until a debt for feed was paid and that he had worked on horse. On March 10 his foreman called him to say that one of the Brilling horses which he had been keeping had been taken during the night with Smith's halter and halter-shank and that the lock on the barn door left open, Prof. Smith said.

Wilfred Ferguson, Mr. Smith's foreman, testified that the morning he discovered the horse was gone he followed the tracks of two men and the horse right up to the

Very Finest Quality "SALADA" TEA

Brillinger barn. Later in company with the constables and Mr. Smith he saw the horse in Brilling's barn, Mr. Ferguson stated. Sergt. Sidney Barraclough and County Constable Aubrey Fleury stated they investigated the case. Mr. Brilling testified that he saw his horse back in the barn on the morning of March 10 but that he didn't know how it got there or who brought it there.

Baker Defends Repealing Of Canada Temperance Act

WARNS WOMEN LIBERALS OF DANGER OF BREAK- ING CONFEDERATION

The purpose of the Hepburn government's motion for repeal of the Canada Temperance Act was to give the provincial government control over border-line towns and areas such as existed at Manitoulin Island, Morgan Baker, M. L. A., told the Aurora Women's Liberal Association on Tuesday, in explaining why he had voted for the measure.

Places having local option at present will remain as before, Mr. Baker stated, unless a three-fifths vote makes them otherwise.

"One of the most ominous statements made in the provincial legislature since 1934, was that made by Col. George Drew, Conservative leader, in criticizing the speech from the throne, when he questioned provincial autonomy," Mr. Baker said.

"Any man who talks of national unity in one breath and of the abolition of provincial legislatures in another, does not know his history," Mr. Baker stated, in referring to George McCullagh.

"A definite attempt is being made to centralize our government. This is a move toward dictatorship, and will mean the breaking up of the confederation. If necessary the Liberals of Canada are willing to fight the battle of confederation all over again."

Speaking on the subject of taxation, Mr. Baker stated that while nobody liked to pay the extra gas tax, no one liked to do away with public services.

Unemployment, the speaker said, continued to be the most serious problem Canadians have to face.

Mr. Baker will be a member of a delegation to wait upon the minister of lands and forests, to re-open the question of reforestation in King township, he said. In this connection, Mr. Baker spoke highly of Aubrey Davis, of Newmarket, who had evidenced a strong interest in the matter.

"We should be thankful that he has brought about a friendlier feeling between England and the United States," said Mr. Baker, in voicing his loyalty to Prime Minister Mackenzie King. "If there is war in Europe, we must have peace and harmony at home. There cannot be peace here unless all provinces have it."

The occasion of Mr. Baker's address was the annual meeting and election of officers of the local association, held at the home of Mrs. John Ough.

Mrs. James Whimster was named president; Mrs. A. M. Kirkwood, 1st vice-president, and Mrs. H. J. Charles and Mrs. Chas. Webster, second and third vice-presidents. Mrs. John Ough was named treasurer and Mrs. L. C. Lee, secretary. Mrs. John Klees is flower convener.

Mrs. N. Eade is convener of the executive committee, composed of Mrs. F. Legge, Mrs. C. Willis, Mrs. E. W. Green, Mrs. E. Fielding, Mrs. F. Smith, Mrs. S. Stephens and Mrs. L. Fingold.

Mrs. Eade assisted the hostess, Mrs. Ough, as did Miss Elaine Ough and Mrs. Lee. Music was provided by Misses Edith Roland and Elaine Ough.

TOWN ASKED TO AID AGRICULTURAL SHOW

There were 126 on the Aurora relief rolls, Councillor Dr. E. J. Henderson, chairman of relief, reported to council on Monday of last week. He expected a reduction in a few days, he said.

A letter from Benjamin Harrison, who lost his job as manager of a local grocery store last fall, brought a more cheerful note to the meeting. When Mr. Harrison lost his job, he obtained permission to sell hot dogs and kindred wares at the booth of the arena.

Mr. Harrison's letter stated that receipts had been $613 and disbursements, $425, leaving him a profit of $188, or, as Mr. Harrison put it, a wage of $14 weekly between Dec. 26, 1938, and March 26, 1939.

He expressed his thanks to the council, and stated that his winter's work had given him an idea for his summer occupation, and that in consequence he had applied for and received permission to operate a booth in a Hamilton park.

Reeve J. A. Knowles moved a vote of thanks for the manner in which the booth had been managed and for the report.

HOPE FOR ANOTHER RECORD TENNIS YEAR

Officers were elected and plans were laid for another year for the Aurora Tennis club at the annual meeting held in the town hall last Thursday evening.

It is expected that the club will be asking the town council for lower light rates so that the present low membership rates may be maintained and the advantages of the club be extended to as many as possible.

It is planned to have an opening day, with an Aurora and district open tournament.

Appreciation of the interest and co-operation of the public was expressed at the meeting. Membership was largest in the club's history. It is hoped to make this an even better year.

Officers elected were: honorary presidents, Dr. C. R. Boulding, Dr. C. J. Davis, Wilfred Adams, Keith Davis; president, Leas O'wain; vice-pres., Keith Nisbet; second vice-pres., Warren Bernard; secretary, Warren Bernard; treasurer, Robert Hocking.

UNITED YOUNG FOLK VISIT IN SCHOMBERG

Members of the Young People's Society of the United Church went to Schomberg on Tuesday night, instead of holding their usual Monday evening meeting in Aurora.

Under the direction of Gordon French, members of the Anglican Y.P.A. enjoyed a social evening on Monday night. The program included a game of word baseball, with Reg Southwood's squad winning in the last half of the ninth, and a short skit in which Gordon French and Arthur Bunn took part.

The evening concluded with dancing and refreshments.

Mrs. J. E. Blatchford and daughters are visiting the former's parents at Cambray.

The pastor, Rev. W. J. Burton, addressed the Sunday-school last Sunday, which was largely attended. Harry West's orchestra from Bogartown was present which added much to the service. They played many lovely selections and accompanied the Easter hymns that were sung. Sunday-school is at 1:30 p.m. and it is most encouraging to have a good turnout.

THANKS COUNCIL FOR HELP DURING WINTER

"We are trying to bring as large a show to town as we can," Elton Armstrong, president of the Agricultural Society, told the council on Monday of last week. "It should not be long before we have gate receipts large enough to take care of all expenses," he said.

"We are very thankful for the use of the town park and for the high school. We are doubling the prize list for the ladies' work."

"We usually get $100 from the town," Mr. Armstrong said. "This has been spent in hiring town bands, in repairing of town property and in hiring town people. We have always felt that we left the $100 in town with you."

"Did we not have a resolution that anybody asking for a grant should provide a financial statement?" asked Councillor C. E. Sparks.

"We would be glad to do that and to have members of council at any of our meetings," Mr. Armstrong stated.

The matter was left with the finance committee to report upon.

BORN IN WHITCHURCH, LADY DIES IN WEST

Well-known in the Newmarket district, where she spent a good part of her life, Mrs. Lydia Pitt died at the home of her son, Gordon, in Calderbank, Sask., on April 3, after an illness of two weeks.

Mrs. Pitt was the daughter of John and Margaret Wesley, and was born in Whitchurch township on June 18, 1858. She married James Pitt, who predeceased her in June, 1925.

She and her husband lived in and around Newmarket until August, 1904, when they moved with their family to Bar River, Ont., where they lived until 1919, moving to Calderbank, Sask., at that time.

Except for visits to the east, Mrs. Pitt has lived at Calderbank with her son since then. She was a member of the United Church.

She is survived by two sons, Gordon of Calderbank, and Garfield of Fort William; two grandchildren, Helen and Wilma Pitt of Calderbank; one sister, Mrs. Wm. Trivett of Burk's Falls, Ont., and one brother, Alonzo Wesley of Ravenshoe.

Another son, Cecil, died in October, 1922.

Burial was made in the family plot at Enfield, Sask. Numerous floral tributes testified to the esteem in which Mrs. Pitt was held by those who knew her.

MRS. JOHN AUSMAN DIES IN 92ND YEAR

Nearing her 92nd birthday, Mrs. John Ausman died on Monday at the home of Mrs. M. L. Andrews, Wells St., after a brief illness.

Mrs. Ausman, who before her marriage was Caroline Ross, lived in the township of King until her marriage with John Ausman, after which she lived in Detroit and Toronto, moving to Aurora some 25 years ago. Her husband died five years ago.

Her oldest brother, James Ross, recently celebrated his 95th birthday, as well as his 68th wedding anniversary. A sister, Mrs. C. A. Willis, arrived in Aurora from Providence, R. I., for the funeral, which was held on Wednesday afternoon.

EGG-GIVING HITS NEW HIGH RECORD

Aurora egg-givers excelled all previous records this year, The Era learned from W. H. Taylor this week, when 159 dozen eggs were delivered to the children in the Orange home.

"But with 120 children and a staff of 15, the eggs won't last too long," Mr. Taylor stated.

Last year's record of 142 dozen, was an improvement over the previous year, but this year beat them all, it was learned.

CAR RECOVERED IN NEW- MARKET; LOCK HAD BEEN FORCED

With about 450 guests in attendance, the church and dance held by the Aurora Fire Brigade in Mechanics' hall on Thursday night turned out to be one of the brightest affairs of the season.

In the euchre which preceded the dancing, Mrs. Sarah Spence took first ladies' prize with a score of 75. Mrs. Norman Lawson, with a score of 72, was in second place, and consolation prize for the unlucky went to Mrs. A. Day.

Gordon Anthony got a high score of 82 for first men's prize and Lorne Cowleson was second with 70. The consolation prize went to Bud Seaton.

Thanks of the fire-fighters are extended to those who helped make the dance a success and to the town police who gave a happy ending to what might have been a sad story for Mr. Seaton, when they recovered Mr. Seaton's car, which had been stolen during the dance, an hour or so after it had disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall visited the former's sister, Mrs. D. Mc-Murphy, at Lasky.

Mrs. J. Murray, who is quite ill, is staying with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. Murray, for a time.

Notables Expected To Be At Hockey Banquet, Dance

AURORA JUNIORS TO BE FETED BY DINNER IN H.S. AUDITORIUM

Plans have been completed for the complete and formal celebration of the Aurora puckchasers' taking of the Ontario junior "C" hockey championship, and by all accounts, the celebration will be a proper one.

The program calls for a dinner and dance in the high school auditorium, on Thursday, April 20, and both are open to the public. Such notables in the hockey world as President Douglas and Secretary "Billy" Hewitt of the Ontario Hockey Association are expected to be at the banquet to make presentation of the crests and medals on behalf of the Association.

The club is providing watches for Aurora's hockey heroes, and rumor has it that the organization that provided the boys' sweaters this year, may come through with windbreakers.

The executive have spent many evenings planning for the affair, and they believe they will have a celebration worthy of the team. It should be good.

FIGHT FIRE ON ROOF OF BLACKSMITH SHOP

Fire visited the village smithy this week and at 10:50 Monday morning firemen received a call from Roy De La Haye.

Arriving on the scene, they found that sparks from one of the chimneys had set fire to the dry shingles of the roof, and it was smoking over a considerable area.

Firefighters made use of the chemical tanks on the engine and the blaze was quickly extinguished. There are two tanks on the truck and while one is being used, the other is filled with chemicals and water, ready for its turn. Each tank is capable of putting out a strong flow for about a ten-minute period, and they certainly showed their efficiency on Monday.

Was Always Sporting Town T.H. Broad Says Of Aurora

RECALLS TOWN'S EARLY ACTIVITIES IN LACROSSE AND CRICKET

T. H. Broad, who celebrates his 82nd birthday this year, took occasion this week to recall "the good old days" for the benefit of The Era reporter.

"William Ough, Sr., and myself are the only members left of Aurora's original lacrosse squad," he stated. "A cup won by the team now stands in the high school."

Evidently the brand of lacrosse played then was every bit as rugged as the present game, and Mr. Broad blames the game's roughness for the fact that lacrosse has not "caught on" to the same extent as other games.

"Aurora was always a good sporting town," Mr. Broad stated. "The town park was originally given to the town by John Mosley for a cricket field and was long known by that description. The council bought additional land to make the present park. David Johnson and Henry Danbrook, members of council at the time, were responsible for the planting of the trees there."

Mr. Broad's athletic ability led him into other activities and he attended an athletic meet in Bradford in 1880 when he won a cup given by Billy Bingham, proprietor of the Bingham hotel there, who was one of Canada's great sprinters. The cup was given for a mile walk.

He also recalls a cup he did not win, when he took part in a ten-mile walking race at Markham, to find himself competing with an ex-champion walker. Though he didn't win the cup, he did come home with a $20 purse, Mr. Broad recalls.

COACH OF CHAMPIONS

When Coach Charles Rowntree sets his gold medal symbolical of the junior "C" hockey championship won by his Aurora team, it will be the second such honor that has come to him.

It was four years ago that Charles Rowntree first became known as the coach of champions, when he brought a team to the top of the Toronto Hockey League heap. He followed this by taking an Aurora team to a group championship in "B" hockey two years ago, by taking another Aurora squad into the Ontario finals last year, and climaxed his hockey coaching career with the championship this year.

The game that took the title this year was the 100th game Charles Rowntree has coached the club in three years, in which time the Aurorans lost less than 20 games.

Even the local hockey fans, slow to recognize talent when it is grown in their own backyard, are now admitting that Coach Rowntree's record of consistently good teams will stand up against that of any coach in Ontario today.

Mr. Rowntree, who is now in his 40s, was born in Ontario and played hockey for many years. He was a member of the Ontario Hockey Association and has coached many teams. He is now the coach of the Aurora team.

Mr. Rowntree is a well-known figure in the hockey world and has been successful in many of his coaching ventures. He is a dedicated coach and is always looking for ways to improve his team.

That there was a certain lack of harmony in harvesting the winter's crop of snow was evidenced at Whitchurch council on Saturday

"Shouldn't the foreman be heard?" asked one councillor.
"I would like to hear both sides," Reeve Earl Toole stated, and the matter was laid over until this could be arranged.

Whitchurch Snow Removal Bill Reaches Over $4,000

COUNCIL CONSIDERS BUY- ING MOTOR GRADER WITH SNOW PLOW

Members of Whitchurch council, faced with a snow-shovelling bill of between four and five thousand dollars for the past season, came to close grips with the struggle with Old Man Winter when they considered the possibility of buying a motor grading machine equipped with snow removal accessories, in Vancor on Saturday.

As if in defiance of anything the council might do to solve the problem, the snow fell steadily throughout the council session.

After listening for over an hour to two salesmen representing one manufacturer, the council decided to cut down their listening time for the next salesmen. The next representatives to appear before council, however, had almost nothing to say.

Apparently of the opinion that one picture speaks louder than a thousand words, they simply asked permission to pull down the blinds of the council room, pulled out a moving picture projector and let the council see their sales talk on the screen.

After a reel of silent pictures, they showed a reel accompanied by "sound." Then they invited the councillors to attend a demonstration at Islington on Tuesday and went on their way.

A combination of snow-plow and road grader of the type being considered by council would cost between $5,000 and $5,500, it was revealed. Councillor Herman Kidd estimated the cost of running the machine to be roughly, $1,600 for a 200-day year.

Hiring such a machine had cost the council $20 per day, it was said. Operation of the old grader now owned by the council cost $20 per day.

Councillor Kidd put forth the argument that a plow and a truck would do the work of clearing snow much more quickly, pointing out that the new equipment being considered had a speed of between 10 and 12 miles an hour. There would be places in the roads where the truck and plow could make much better speed, he contended.

Council agreed that it might be better advised to buy a plow and hire a truck for the purpose. There were men in the township who would be willing to buy a truck and rent it, if the council decided to do this, Reeve Earl Toole stated.

The council would be well advised to give the matter of spending over $5,000 for machinery very careful thought, the reeve declared, and his ideas found much support in council. Members of council will inspect the equipment used by neighboring municipalities, before coming to a decision.

Consideration for bills covering repairs to plows broken in this winter's battle with the snow, was asked for by a number of farmers.

The Era is Ontario's first paid-in-advance weekly.

WHITCHURCH TOWNSHIP

Can't Legally Make Grants Councillor H. Kidd Says

"GRANTLESS" COUNCIL HEARS PLEA FROM AGRI- CULTURAL SOCIETY

Whitchurch council was in danger of losing its reputation as a "grantless" council on Saturday, when Elton Armstrong appeared before them on behalf of the Aurora Agricultural Society.

Mr. Armstrong appeared to ask a grant of money to be used for a prize for King and Whitchurch farmers showing horses at the society's show this year.

A suggestion made by Councillor Herman Kidd, that a certain class of horse was not given an even "break" from the judges, brought out the information that Township Clerk John Crawford had himself won top place with his horses in that class.

Every effort was made to obtain competent and unbiased judges. Mr. Armstrong assured the council. He cited cases of farmers getting fine prizes because their horses had been at the show.

"This is the first grant we have been asked for in 1939," Reeve Earl Toole said. "I would not be opposed to a grant for a certain class. I am in favor of a grant to the show if we are going to make grants."

"Does it hurt council to make grants?" asked Deputy-Reeve Jesse Cook.

"We are about the only municipality that does not make grants," the reeve stated.

"I claim these things should stand on their own feet," declared Councillor Herman Kidd.

"I agree," said the reeve, "But

MACHINERY HAS STRAIGHTENED UP THIS SHAPE

Millet, the French artist, son of a farmer and himself a farm laborer, has in his universally known pictures of—The Gleaners, The Man with the Hoe, etc., left a very graphic record of farming methods and their influence on farm workers of a century ago.

Edwin Markham, the American poet, viewing The Man with the Hoe, interprets it to us with dramatic force in his poem of the same name when he says,

Who loosened and let down this brutal jaw,
Whose hand that slanted back this brow,
Whose breath blew out the light within this brain.

Ringling out the challenge, he asks—"Is this the thing the Lord, God made and gave dominion over land and sea?" and calls on "Masters, Lords and Rulers of all lands to straighten up this shape".

But each step in this great emancipation has come by the introduction of some new labor-saving machine. Thus by liberating man from back-breaking, brain-deadening toil, modern machinery has done more than all the masters, lords and rulers of all lands to straighten up this shape.

For ninety years now Massey-Harris has played a conspicuous part in designing and making such labor-saving machines and in the development of power and power equipment for farm operations.

WHITCHURCH TOWNSHIP COUNCIL WILL PROVIDE MEANS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN TO SEE KING AND QUEEN IN CITY

The county council committee assigned to the job of preparing for the visit of the King and Queen in May, has asked co-operation of municipal bodies in making arrangements. Reeve Earl Toole told Whitchurch council on Saturday.

The Whitchurch council will be expected to arrange transportation of school children, and it was suggested that every child be required to carry a small Union Jack, the reeve stated.

Space has been reserved for Whitchurch children in Exhibition Park, Toronto.

"If you want a proper turnout for the township, we will have to pay for it," stated Councillor Herman Kidd. He doubted if there would be a full attendance if the school boards had to provide the transportation.

"It has been suggested by Reeve

Bert Knowles, of Aurora, that Newmarket, King, Whitchurch and Aurora get together to run a special train," stated Reeve Toole.

"That would be all right for Aurora," said Councillor Kidd. "But if the children have to travel across the township it will not be so good."

Councillor Kidd favored the use of trucks, instead of trains, for the transportation of the children. The trains would be inconvenient, he said.

"In case of an accident, the municipality would be liable," Councillor George Leary warned.

Discussion brought out the information that from 20 to 30 children could be put in each truck and that about 12 trucks would be needed. Council will confer with school boards on the matter.

Completing the Picture of a GOLDEN WEDDING

Mrs. Allen Quickfall, of Bridgeport, Ont., had just arranged a huge bouquet of Chrysanthemums, their Golden Wedding Remembrance from assembled children and grandchildren, when the telephone rang. It was a call from Kindersley, Sask., and the voice of Roy, her son, greeted her. What a surprise on such a day! Mrs. Quickfall writes: "We like to pass on to other sons and mothers the value and satisfaction to be obtained through the medium of telephone contacts, particularly so when the dear ones are scattered over the country."

• If you wait for a Golden Wedding? Next time there is a family celebration call up by Long Distance. Make it a real surprise. And remember this, it costs so little, you too, will be surprised!

Rev. Geo. Murray spoke on "The Challenge of the Cross."

One of the most hopeful signs for the church is the splendid way in which young people are responding to that challenge," he said.

"World conditions demand an aggressive Christian policy in the spirit of Christ. We cannot save the world by condemning it."

Easter Sunday, with its bright sunshine, lent itself to the day of praise and rejoicing. The attendance at Sunday-school and church were record ones. Special music was rendered by the choir and soloist, which was much appreciated.

The title of the music was, "He lives again."

The sermon was based on I Cor. 15:57—the double victory over the power of sin and death. HITLER MEANT

24 hours after they had reached the point. When the cases were opened everything was so covered with rust that it took them 48 hours to get the material in shape to put together, and when they got it finally cleaned off they found ten per cent of the vital parts were not there at all.

He said the observation of his man was that he would not have believed in 20 years that there could be such an absolute evaporation of efficiency from the service as was evidenced in this case.

"Another evidence that Britain was not ready in September was that they were still working on air-raid shelters in February, and not through yet by any manner of means. One of the most interesting sights that I saw in London was on the morning of March 10, visiting an outlying London shoe factory with our London agent; we turned into a side-street of workmen's homes to make a detour in order to avoid traffic, which was very heavy, and to our surprise we found ourselves caught in a street filled with one-horse drays, each carrying a steel air-raid shelter, each dray having two or three men to carry the shelter to its location at the back of the house.

"However, every housewife on the street seemed to be out protesting in no uncertain terms. There are no passages between the houses, and apparently not any spot to welcome the shelter when it was coaxed either through the house, or over the top, to the little open space behind the house.

"If any further evidence is needed of unpreparedness, it is shown in the fact that despite the very limited number of men that were put into uniform in September, their reserves of shoes and stores were exhausted in no time, and government agents were scouring through retailers' and wholesalers' stock to find some kind of shoes to put on men's feet.

"Hence we leave September, knowing the dictators were ready to risk all in a general war and France and England were both lamentably and disgracefully weak when civilization's future hung in the balance.

"In leaving New York in February, we found on board many heads of American manufacturing concerns, all crossing in expectation of securing substantial contracts for war materials from either France or England or both, materials running from submarines, airplanes, submarine chasers, munitions, machine guns, etc. Very interesting was the story told by one of these men whose firm finally signed a contract in the last war to deliver 500 submarine chasers, or M.L.s, as they were called, at a price almost unbelievable to hear these men tell how they fought for months in 1915 to secure a contract to make these M.L.s which the British government needed very badly, and which they were prepared to supply, but the attitude of the Englishmen, according to these gentlemen, was that mass production could not be applied to a boat of that kind, and it was only by the confidence that the American concern displayed and their willingness to accept a contract ridiculous in its conditions that seemed to finally persuade the Englishmen to take a chance.

"Finally they received a contract for 300 of these boats. The contract called for one day to be delivered, once the delivery started, and reserved the right on the failure on the part of any one of these boats on several different vital points, to the British government to cancel the entire contract.

"A very interesting story is told of what these M.L.s did for the British government and the allied forces, in an illustrated book entitled "Hounding the Hun from the Sea," written by Lieut. Irving Chase, one of the men who was in the crossing on Feb. 10 and who very kindly presented me with a copy of one of these books with his autographed endorsement.

"It was given to understand on the most reliable authority that the pooled production of United States manufacturers was prepared to accept a contract to deliver bombers from mass production plants, delivery to start nine months from the day the contract was signed. The bombers were to be the latest, "Flying Fortress" type, with a guaranteed speed of 400 miles per hour, but the quantities they were prepared to deliver once the nine months preparation was completed, was staggering, almost unbelievable. I was told that the same type of objection was being raised by the English authorities to this bomber contract as was raised by English authorities to considering the M.L. contract in 1915.

"The Englishman was still very sceptical of mass production, despite the fact that these machines were guaranteed to reach 10,000 feet from take-off in one-third of the time that any British machine of that type could do it. Also the Englishman did not like the modern landing that these machines had, where they zoom to the field, and brought the speed to a proper landing by the use of brakes. Their pilots would all need special instructions in handling they claim, because they were accustomed to landing from a glide.

"This reluctance to come to a decision, on the part of British authorities, seems very similar to 1914 conditions, when a great deal of Britain's troubles were due to the fact that only wearers of school ties held key positions, and not until men of initiative and ability were allowed to come to the top, irrespective of their social position, did things begin to improve in the Great War. My impression is that the British have slipped back in a considerable measure into the old order of things in the past 20 years.

"On the arrival on the other side, no submarine nets are in evidence at Cherbourg, as was the case in September. Much improved air defences everywhere are in evidence in the British Isles, but still the air force is far below where it should be to meet an emergency. There are increased numbers and equipment in the army, but away below where it should be, and no proper force will ever be raised, in my opinion, if they do not adopt conscription.

"The British navy is 100 per cent efficient today, and we must all say, 'Thank God for the Navy.'

"Since September, the unfavorable items which have developed for the democracies are first, the loss of 37 divisions of the finest soldiers and equipment behind the second best and most expensive defence line in Europe, the Czecho-Slovakia frontier. Also the loss of the second largest munition works in the world.

"The second unfavorable development is the improvement in mobilization and equipment of both the German and Italian forces.

"The third unfavorable item is the lack of confidence in the ability of France and England to protect their friends from the dictators. This has spread over like a paralyzing fear and it is having the effect of keeping many desirable allies away from the side of the democracies today.

"The developments in the six months period that are favorable to the Allies are, first, the vast improvement in air services, and land defences, both in France and in Great Britain.

"Second, and possibly the most important, is the entirely changed attitude of the United States. No longer are they merely an interested spectator, but now fully recognize the future of the United States rests completely and entirely with the future of France and England. If the latter two mentioned fall, then it is only a question of weeks before the United States goes down.

VICTORIA SQUARE BANQUET SPEAKER IS LEADERSHIP LEAGUER

The banquet on Thursday night of last week, under the auspices of the Junior Farmers and Institute, was a decided success.

The community hall was filled to capacity by members and friends. W. M. Cockburn of Newmarket was toastmaster and also led in a lively sing-song. Rev. Mr. Macdonald proposed the toast to "The King and Country."

A toast to the Junior Farmers and Institute was proposed by Earl Empringham and responded to by Mabel Sanderson.

Major G. R. Lane, a member of the Leadership League, was the guest speaker. Major Lane pointed out many things the league is endeavoring to do to help remedy the ills of the country. Following the address, the presentation of the trophies won at the York county seed fair held recently at Sutton West was made by Chas. Hooper, deputy-recs for Markham township.

The winners were: John Smith, Jack Frisby, Marcus Jarvis, Wm. Gohn, John Empringham, Earl Empringham, Leslie Hart and Jas. Valliere. These trophies were in the form of beautiful silver cake plates. The Institute girls also had on display a beautiful blue and gold satin comforter on which they sold tickets.

Fred Constable of Vellore Junior Farmers was the purchaser of the lucky ticket. Dancing to Johnston Brothers' orchestra brought the evening to a close.

A beautiful Good Friday service was held in the United church on Friday evening. Rev. Mr. Macdonald gave a very inspiring talk on the last part of Romans 8:2, "Christ Died For Us."

The large crowd that filled Holsa Hill church on Sunday night were thrilled by the beautiful singing of the male chorus of 27 voices from the Messiah Bible College, Grantham, Pa. Opening the program, the chorus sang a group of four numbers, "There is joy in following Jesus," "Beautiful Saviour," "In Joseph's Lovely Garden," and "Praise Ye the Father."

The male quartet followed with "The Heavenly Whole Hearted," and "Come Partly." The chorus' second group was, "Jesus and I," "Great is Thy Faithfulness," "There is a Fountain Filled With Blood."

James O'Sullivan, a native of Jamaica, and a student at the college, gave a group of most interesting readings, "Galvary and Easter," "The Teacher's Dream," "An Indian's Translation of the 23rd Psalm," "The Gospel According to you," "The Stranger at My Door," "Wait 'Till the Dawn," closing with a negro spiritual, "Holy Mountain."

At this point Jacob G. Kuhns, a member of the college faculty, brought greetings from the school. Mr. Kuhns was a professor at the Ontario Bible College for two years, when it was located at Gormley, so his return was very welcome. The quartet's second group was, "Heavenly Love," "Jesus and I," and "The Name of Jesus the Sweetest."

The chorus closed the program with the following group, "The Challenge of a New Day," "O, 'Tis a Great Change for Me," "At the Close of the Day," and "The Song of the Holders."

John and Inna Williamson, students at Pickering College, Newmarket, are spending the Easter vacation at their home here.

Mrs. M. Wilson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnston. The community club met at the school on Thursday evening. Fred Reid's group gave the radio program over station P.O.C.C., Pine Orchard.

Mrs. Wicke was announced and Miss Ruth Arncliffe gave a piano solo. "Tea-Time Topics" were given by Mrs. Dike. Several selections were given by Russell Allan and the Pineapple orchestra. A quartette, "Billy Boy," was given by Misses Audrey Spraxton, Jacqueline Skinner, Marie Reynolds and Ruth Arncliffe. A reading was given by Billy Dike and the Pine Orchard Enterprises read by Geo. Sproston.

The "Fashion Forum," in the Easter parade was well worth seeing, and created quite an interest in the fashions so well portrayed by both ladies and gentlemen. Those who went to see men trouble to find suitable old-time and modern costumes were: Miss C. Brandon, Misses Jean Stevens, Audrey Sproston, Viva Sharpshire, Mae Stevens and Jas. Hope, Fred Reid, Howard Lehman and H. Stevens. "Treasure Trail" was interesting and humorous.

The next club meeting will be on Friday evening, April 12. Chas. Brandon's group is preparing a good program.

There were a few more out to church on Easter Sunday. Wouldn't it be fine if everyone in the community would make a point of attending church on Sunday? There is room for all and few would care to live in a churchless neighborhood. Church of Christ Sunday-school meets at 10 a.m., followed by service. The Union Chapel Sunday-school meets at 1:30 p.m. and church service is at 2:30 p.m.
